I often think of how precarious our existence is in this immense Universe: For life to exist there's an innumerable set of coincidences that without which we could not survive. We are constantly at the mercy of a much grander force.
The Universe is to us like a mother to a child for whom her love and daily care are needed for his survival.

Green patinated bronze and white bronze, edition of 8 plus 3 artist's proofs, 96 x 140 x 94 cm.
