FALLING IN LOVE

There is no sensation stronger than love and nothing can revolutionize a soul more than falling in love.

To fall in love is overwhelming and empowering, it is also scary because you feel you lose control but you can't wait for where it will lead you. I always loved the expression 'Falling in Love' because you actually do feel very much like jumping out of a plane into a vast open space below and your heart leaps into your throat and pumps out of control but you are just floating and everything around you is in a blurred distance, nothing else matters, nothing else is more important than being there in that moment.
