

FAITH

"I believe that life is a staircase, and we never take one step at a time, until we're forced to do so by nature. . ."

People rarely take time to explore life's opportunities and appreciate what they have because they are too obsessed with attaining greater glories. Life is a learning experience; it should be lived to its fullest. By not living one risks depriving oneself of the experience of dying, because what isn't alive wasn't born.
